Long and Rather Spicy Reply to Last Criticism of the Richmond Physician.

DEFENDS COURSE OF BOARD

That Body to Continue Its Work As to It Seems Best-Some Interesting Letters.

Petersburg, Vo., October 17, 1905.
Editor of The Times-Dispatch:
Sir,—I read Dr. Carringron's communication in your issue of October 14th, and have delayed my reply until I could obtain certain information as to statements made by him.

Allow me to say first, that upon a careful reading of Dr. Carrington's last communication. I do not understand that he INTENDED to make a personal controversy with me, or to question my ve-he INTENDED to make a personal con-iroversy with me, or to question my ve-tacity, but that he deprecated such a controversy, and intended only to con-trovert the existence of certain facts which I had stated that "as I am ad-vised," constituted his only connection with the Institute; I have been confirmed in this understanding by gentlemen whom I thought qualified to judge of such a question, and also by his statement that "I (he) will not be put in the position of having a personal controversy with

"I (he) will not be put in the position of having a personal controversy with the board or any member of it, although in Mr. Hamilton's special case the temptation is great."

I now reply. It should be noted that in June last, some three months prior to the date of the first letter written by Dr. Carrington, the board, being informed as to the food conditions, considered and acted upon them, taking definite action to correct defects, and placsidered and acted upon them, taking definite action to correct defects, and placing the official in immediate charge of the food upon probation. On September 19th Dr. Carrintgon wrote his letter to me, and the ulmost courtesy and frankness were shown Dr. Carrington in the reply. In this reply he was assured that the beard and the superintendent were thoroughly alive to the question; that the board would meet again on September 30th and proposed to do everything ber 80th and proposed to do everything ise the department should be reorganized forty.

FOSITION OF THE BOARD. It will be observed that the board, list recognizing the real defects, did think that the extreme statements Dr. Carrington's letter were justified; Dr. Carrington does not seem able comprehend the differences between cits" and "intemperate allegations." Carrington, having made the comcourteously furnished with a copy of the resolution showing the action of the board. This seems to have greatly angered him, as I think, without just ground, for it was simply the opinion of members of the board, in which they differed with Dr. Carrington. The board had no idea that anything unpleasant to Dr. Carrington personally had occurred, but, on the contrary, thought he was a friend of the institution and so treated him.

Here it should be noted what the rington, which was evidently made under excitement and irritation, if not in extreme anger. Then Dr. Carrington made his first publication, in which he violently attaced the members of the board, charging them with not taking time to attend to their duties, and saying that he happened to know that some of the members were guilty of this charge. This charge has been refuted. He was asked to name the men whom he said he knew were guilty. He has not named them, and has not attempted in his last paper to justify this charge. He also, in his first paper, attacked the board for not dismissing the commissary, Mr. Glimore. This I have in a prior paper answered, and I will not consume more space in again doing so. The members of the board, acting on their best information and judgment, and in the discharge of their duty, deemed it inadvisable to dismiss Mr. Glimore AT THAT TIME. Which was most likely to have formed a correct opinion, the board or Dr. Carrington?

Dr. Carrington?

Just here I should notice a sentence Just here I should notice a sentence in Dr. Carrington's last paper. He says "Must these conditions exist until February 1, 1906, because Mr. Hamilton' CONFRIEND of the Constitutional Constitutional Constitutions in the guartermaster". Must these conditions exist that serious and many control is the quartermaster?" This means either nothing as an argument, or that Mr. Gilmore was not discharged merely because he was a co-member with me of the convention, and hence, by inneeds, was unduly favored by me. If the latter was meant, then the name of Col, Francis L. Smith, of Alexaudria, and darken the member of the board, should have been mentioned with mine. There was no ground known to me to justify his suggestion in the relations of either Col. Smith or myself to Mr. Gilmore, I knew Mr. Gilmore in the convention only as a worthy, quiet member, who had the respect of all who knew him, as I then supposed, and still tinkit; and, as I have stated before, he was appointed by ite board on, the recommendation of the bappended min bis original publication was no ground grown.

Liet us see as to this: Dr. Carrington and most violent and angry attack upon the institute and its governing board, and still tinkit; and, as I have stated before, he was appointed by ite board on, the recommendation of the bappended on the recommendation of the superintendent.

Liet TRE FROM GENERAL SHIPP. The only remaining point made by Dr. Carrington in his original publication was so extraordinary under the deformation of love and particle devotion was so extraordinary under the deformatiance of the superintendent of the superintendent.

Superintendent.

It will be noted that, in speaking of this cadet, I said "the class and conduct record of the ward up to about the end of the session was good"; General Shipp's letter said "fairly good," and yet Dr.
Carrington, in his last paper, says, speaking' of me: "He grudgingly admits that his class and conduct record up to the end of the session was good." I submit that there was no justification for this statement, when I said more for the cadet than the superintendent did; it

From the information contained in the

From the information contained in the superintendent's letter I necessarily drew the deduction that there was nothing in Dr. Carrington's connection with the Institute to account for his expression of love and patriotic enthusiasm for "the dear old Virginia Military Institute, with the hallowed associations." but, on the dear old Virginia Military Institute, with its hallowed associations," but, on the contrary, much to show a personal grievance, and much to account for Dr. Carrington's extraordinary attack on the Institute and its board, and I said it was "at least possible that his views on the subject as to which he has made a publication have been somewhat, colored and biased by-dwelling upon that grievance; it will also appear to what extent he was a pairon of the Institute."

WAS IT JUSTIFIED?

WAS IT JUSTIFIED? cullty of unnecessary bad taste and unfairness in dragging his son into the con-troversy; that his son's connection with the institute and his subsequent conduct and record there had nothing whatever to lently to endeavor to injure the object of his love without a real or imagined cause. For this reason alone was his son's trouble mentioned, and even then in the least objectionable way.

Now, let us see which of the statements made by me as to his connection with the institute, as I was advised by the superintendent's letter, he admits or

lst. He admits that he made the ap-plication for the State cadetahip, and that his application was not granted, and he does not deny the reason given by me for its refection—viz., that the beard was satisfied that his ward had sufficient means to pay for his education.

He apparently tries to break the force of this by saying: "My son did not get the appointment, but Mr. Hamilton's nephew, a splendid fellow, by the way, did secure the appointment." The neand did not get it. Dr. Carrington is again, as usual, wrong, as to his facts. I have never had a nephew or any other kinsman at the institute as a State cadet; the only nephew I ever had there is there now; he is Cadet H. B. Caskie, of Bedford. As I preferred to make no statement myself on such a question, i wrote the superintendent, General Shipp, on the 18th instant, sending him Dr. Carrington's last communication, and requested him to write me the facts as to Cydet Caskie, and to ask Colonel W. T. Foague, the secretary of the heard, to write me the facts as to my seeking an appointment for any kinsman. Under appoint to the Gilliatt Scholarship, it being by direction of the founder vekted only in the superintendent.

I further state that I withdrew the application of my nephew for a State cadetship before the board met because I learned that he was a month or so too young to be eligible for appointment as a State cadet, and further that I did not know until after the board had made its appointments of State cadets that the Gilliatt Scholarship was vacant or that General Shipp thought of appointing my nephew to it.

So much for his implied charge of nepotism.

HE DID NOT APPLY. HE DID NOT APPLY.
Second. Dr. Carrington then denies the truth of what he calls my statement "that Dr. Carrington, falling to secure this appointment to the State cadetship, applied to the superintendent to have his stepson and ward enter the Institute free of charge for tuitlon," and says he made no such application, but was tendered the tuitlon free appointment by a communication from the supervitendent's office. I did not make this as my statement, but made it "as I was advised."

were three gentlemen present at the time of this conversation, and to one of them he made exactly the same statement." (Caps mine.) Dr. Carrington is clearly in error on this point, as appears from a letter of his to the superintendent, dated August 25, 1904, which is as follows:

dated August 25, 1994, which is as follows:

"Richmond, Va., Aug. 25, 1994.

"Yours very truly."

Fourth, Dr. Carrington states that on September 3th he went to Lexington; that ON MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 11th, to called on General Shipp; that "AKTER LEAVING HIS OFFICE 7. VENT OVER TO BARRACKS, AND BEING INVITED DINNER WITH THEM, I ACCEPTED.

I know that Dr. Carrington had not been requested or authorized by the board of visitors to make the inspection mentioned. Whether he was asked to do so by Dr. Upshur, I do not know. The reasons given by Dr. Carrington, in his communication, for taking this dinner, viz., THE INVITATION OF SOME FIRST CLASSMEN, AND THAT NO THOUGHT OF COMPLAINT HAD OCCURRED TO HIM UNTIL HE SAW THE CADETS DINNER ON SEPTEMBER 11TH, seem to be diametrically op-BER HTH, seem to be diametrically on posed to the facts stated in the affidavits of the cadets.

Before closing this paper, which is aiready too loos, I should say that in my prior communication explaining the food conditions of the session of 1963-4, as to which Dr. Carrington says I was mis-iaken in the year, I based my statement as to the time upon the language of bis letter dated SEPTEMBER 19711, 1905, in which he says his atten-tion was first called to the pad food at the Virginia Military In-

Editor of The Times-Dispatch:

Sir.—In the reply of Mr. Hamilton to Dr. Carrington's second letter, a deposition of Cadet First Captain Snead is introduced, which places me in an equivosal in the proper attitude towards my colleagues of the board of the Virginia

My Dear Doctor,—In Mr. Hamilton's reply to your second letter, published in the News-Leader of this date is a sworn deposition of Cadet First Captain Snead, in which he uses this language: "While at dinner he (Dr. Carrington) toid us that Dr. Upshur, a member of the board, had requested him (Dr. Carrington) to inspect the food. I was much surprised to see this statement, and write to ask if Mr. Snead has correctly quoted you. I would remind you that you never discussed the food at the institute with me, until after your return from Lexington. I was not aware of the fact that you were going to Lexington until after your return. Furthemore, being only one of the board. I would not have arrogated to myself the authiority to make such a request. This sworn statement of Mr. Snead's puts me in an equivocal position with the board, and your categorical answer will very much oblige me. Dr. John N. Upshur, City:
Dear Doctor—If you will read Cadet Tazewell Ellett's statement of how he approached this matter with Cadet Captain Snead, you will see how the whole thing occurred—he explains clearly how he made the error of introducing me as representing the board. I said at the messional table that I intended to report the condition of affairs to you (Dr. Upshur); that I didn't believe you had any idea that such food was served, and I presume that is how Captain Snead got the impression that I was doing somethin, at your request.
